

Associate Archaeologist

Archaeological Research Services, Inc. (ARS) has an immediate opening for an Associate Archaeologist to be based at our Main Office in Tempe, Arizona. The Associate Archaeologist is a mid-level position and requires someone capable of working independently or as part of a crew under a Project Director. Typical projects for this position include running or assisting in Class III surveys, and assisting on testing and data recovery projects throughout Arizona. Additional duties will include writing survey reports, conducting background research, assisting with lab tasks, and generally filling in where needed. Preferred candidates will possess a B.A. in Anthropology/Archaeology and 2-3 years experience in southwestern field archaeology with some responsibility for report preparation. Overview knowledge of Southwestern prehistory and history, ability to work without supervision, and proven writing skills are essential. Proficiency with word processing and spreadsheet programs such as Word, WordPerfect, and Excel are imperative. Preference will be given to candidates with experience in computer graphics, Microsoft Access, and/or PC maintenance. Must have a valid driver's license. This is a full-time position with benefits after six months. Salary is competitive, and is based on experience and education. Please send resume with cover letter detailing work experience and education, and a list of three professional references to:
